Dear Professor Angel Ramos-Macias,

Letter in support of London's bid to host IFOS - The International Federation of ORL (Otolaryngologists) Societies

As the Minister for Sport, Tourism, Civil Society and Youth at the Department for Culture, Media and Sport (DCMS), I would like to extend my support to London's bid to host the IFOS - The International Federation of ORL (Otolaryngologists) Societies in 2030. We would be delighted to extend a warm welcome to the IFOS and to your delegates in London, England.

London is a prime location for the congress, home to the Royal National ENT & Eastman Dental hospital, one of the UK's largest ENT specialist hospitals, providing a range of services from complex surgeries to routine out-patient services. Working closely with local universities to enhance clinical research and educational courses, the city's collaborative community provides an ideal environment for the exchange of ideas and the forging of new partnerships. With its cutting-edge facilities and expertise ranging from audiology and hearing aid services to laryngology and rhinology, London is well equipped to host world-leading research and commercial testing, making it a fitting host for a global event of this nature.

Beyond its academic credentials, London offers a rich and welcoming experience for all delegates. It is a city of diverse culture, vibrant culinary scenes, and a comprehensive public transport network. Delegates can explore the city's heritage, from the iconic Wembley Stadium to the Florence Nightingale Museum, the city boasts a vast range of landmarks and dining venues making it the perfect city for delegates to network and explore beyond the conference.

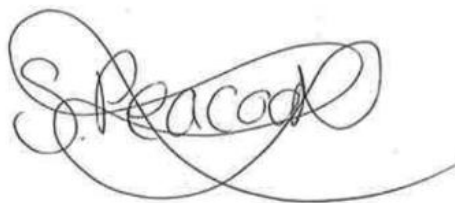

I would like to take this opportunity to assure you that the UK is always open for visitors and business, and we are committed to making travel as easy as possible. Our ongoing efforts to digitize the border, including the introduction of the Electronic Travel Authorisation (ETA) system, are designed to ensure a smooth and efficient experience for all visitors.

I am pleased to add my support and trust that we have demonstrated that London represents a strong and competitive option for your consideration.

Thank you,

Yours sincerely,
