Dear Professor Angel Ramos-Macias,

Letter in support of London's bid to host the IFOS - The International Federation of ORL (Otolaryngologists) Societies

I am delighted to learn that London is bidding to welcome the IFOS - The International Federation of ORL (Otolaryngologists) Societies in 2030.

I fully endorse this bid, and I know that our partners within the UK Events industry will deliver a magnificent and successful event for all your participants. Britain is one of the most dynamic and exciting global destinations and will be a popular choice for your delegates. I am confident your delegates will find it invaluable to engage with our cutting-edge research and education community while attending the congress here.

As the host destination, London provides an ideal setting for both business and networking. Outside of the formal sessions, delegates can enjoy the city's renowned attractions, including museums (many with free admission), unique pubs, and diverse restaurants.

The facilities and infrastructure of the Excel London have been carefully developed to support event operations and will complement your conference programme ensuring delegates have an unforgettable experience. Conveniently located on the Elizabeth Line of the London Underground, the Excel is easily accessible from all major points of the city, including Kings Cross St. Pancras for the Eurostar and London Heathrow Airport for those delegates coming from further afield.

As the national tourism agency for Britain, VisitBritain will work closely with our colleagues in London, England and throughout Britain, to ensure delegates are given every assistance to make the most of their visit to Britain. Naturally, we hope that many will choose to extend their visits to experience the rich history, culture and countryside.

I am pleased to add my support and trust that we have demonstrated that London represents a strong and competitive option for your consideration.

Yours sincerely
